

Thermal Transient Analysis of Bolometer

Gabriel Gálik^{1, a)}, Vladimír Kutíš¹ and Juraj Paulech¹

¹Slovak University of Technology in Bratislava, Faculty of Electrical Engineering and Information Technologies, Department of Automotive Mechatronics

^{a)}Corresponding author: gabriel.galik@stuba.sk

Abstract. This article deals with the transient thermal modeling of a micro-bolometer. Multiple proposed structures are analyzed, with both constant and periodically pulsed excitation power. The different static and dynamic properties of the studied structures are analyzed and evaluated.